THE GENUINE

KEELEY

TREATMENT

Authorized and under the direction of

of the LESLEY E. KEELEY

CO., DWIGHT, ILL., for

Liquor, Opium

AND

Tobacco Habits

BY THE USE OF DR. LESLEY E. KEELEY'S

DOUBLE CHLORINE or GOLD REMEDIES.

Indorsed by progressive physicians, philanthropists and divines, including Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, of Brooklyn, Tennessee, who recently visited Dwight and addressed the 700 patients in line. The United States government has adopted these remedies for use in all States and National Soldiers' Homes. Carefully kept records prove

50 per cent. permanent cures; 60,000 homes already made happy. The objectionable features of salubrious treatment removed. No hospital, no restriction. All necessary liquors supplied during treatment. No admission or restriction like elsewhere. Terms $25 per week; board extra,

$7 to $15 per week, to suit pure and inclination.

Good accommodations, including baths, at the Institute.

NOTE OF WARNING.

To the Public:

As a matter of fact to ourselves and to the reputation of Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Double Chlorine and Gold Remedies, we warn the public that these remedies are used by no institution or individual in the United States, except those established by our company under the uniform name of "THE KEELEY INSTITUTE."

All others claiming to use our remedies are frauds and impostors.

We have now sixty Keeley Institutes established in various parts of the United States, where the Double Chlorine and Gold Remedies are used.

We, however, caution all to examine carefully and know that we are dealing with

GENUINE REPRESENTATIVES, authorized by us, before making treatment or purchasing remedies.

The misleading establishments use the name of "Biclorine of Gold" or similar titles. The newspapers often fail to discriminate sufficiently to know that they are impostors. This is a matter of public welfare, and hence this warning.

We desire inspection of our Institution and inquire correspondence, which is strictly confidential.

Respectfully Yours,

APPLICATION FOR LIQUOR LICENSE.

Brainerd, June 22, '93.

To the board of County Commissioners of Crow Wing County, Minn. The undersigned, N. C. Simmler and Mrs.

Adel, both hereby making application for a license to sell intoxicating liquors in a building owned by Notice to Subscribers.

Any of our subscribers who fail to receive their paper from the post-office can get an extra copy by calling at this office. We make this mention as many complaints are made every week to us.

There are men who predict that the session of congress called for August 7th will last a year.

The removal of Monroe Nichols as register of the Duluth land office took place last Saturday, Andrew Jackson Taylor taking possession at that time.

Where are the good times that the Democratic organs promised the workmen of this country in the event of Democratic supremacy last fall.

HUNDREDS of acres of spring wheat in the southern part of the state is being cut to save it for feed, the hot weather having ruined it for anything else.

TWO HUNDRED national banks have closed their doors since January 1st, 1893, remarks the St. Cloud Times. Let us see, wasn't it about that time that a change from a Republican to a Democratic administration took place?

The school board finds itself in a position where it is necessary to ask the state for a loan of $25,000 in order to complete the four new school houses in course of construction. The reason of this is that the eastern parties who bought the bonds issued for that purpose will not take the last twenty-five bonds leaving an amount something like $27,000. The vote upon this matter will probably be unanimous in its favor, as in case they were voted down work on all the school houses would stop at once. The meeting is called for Friday evening, Aug. 4, at 8 o'clock, in the Washington school building.

Distrust is Widespread.

An interview with ex-President Harrison on the present situation of affairs is printed in the New York Times as follows:

"The Sherman act is not alone responsible for the prevailing want of confidence in everybody now on the part of the people. The distrust is not against silver only; it is not against the government issue of money; people are not holding gold throughout the country. Comparatively, gold is circulating as freely as silver. People are withdrawing money—gold, silver and paper alike—from the banks, and the savings institutions, and are locking it in safe deposit vaults or hiding it in their stockings. They do this, not because they have no confidence in the government, but because they are fearful of business calamities. The distrust is increasing and it is not the case of the country as a whole, but of the individual. The Sherman act is not the sole cause of bad times; that measure has served its purpose, it is true, but it is not responsible for the depression which overhangs commerce, trade and agriculture.

"The political party in power came in on a statement of its principles formulated and promulgated at Chicago, where a gathering which represented a diversity of political beliefs and professions gave this statement to the country as the platform of the Democratic party. It was announced to the country that the existing system of tariff should be modified to the benefit of the people. They do this on the basis of the party now in power were elected. The enormous manufacturing interests were, of course, duly impressed, and were compelled to set themselves to the condition to which the Chicago platform must logically lead.

"It is possible to bridge over suddenly the wide chasm intervening between comparative free trade and the protection system under which the nation grew rich without prolonged convulsions of trade. Great economic changes do not adjust themselves with celerity, hence, fearing changes, factories stop, work shops close and prices shrink. If the Chicago enumeration of principles is to be maintained business must be prepared for a change. According to its principles the government is pledged to reduce the tariff to a standard of the Chicago convention. The business of the country cannot prosper under these circumstances. Distrust is widespread, everything languishes.

"The heterogeneous political elements that will meet in Washington will represent free trade and many theories contrary to business stability. The conservative people of the country stand against the possibilities of legislation and are trimming sails to suit the weather. The outlook is dark, but it is difficult to see how relief is to come. The distrust might be dispelled, perhaps, but how? In one sense the situation is theatrical, excitement might be caused by a stroke of insuperable disaster. A panic is sometimes averted by a band striking up a popular air, just as the frightened crowd is about to rush and trample over one another.

"How can the present somewhat analogous condition be changed by suddenly inspired confidence? The leaders of the party in power will scarcely acknowledge that its principles are mistaken, that the Chicago platform was false and should be repudiated. I can see no Moses at present who will lead the business world out of its Egyptian darkness."

Great Democratic Victory.

Little Boy—Papa, what makes so many men standing round on the street corners these days? They didn't use to.

Fond (Democratic) Father—Tut, tut, my son, be quiet, or somebody will hear you.

Neighbor (Republican)—I'll tell you, Johnny. It is the great Democratic victory last fall that makes those men stand there. We are having such good times that they don't have to work. But you just wait till Cleveland gets back from Buzzard Bay. He'll set them all to work. He don't believe in idleness. He's going to increase their wages, too. And you can buy things so much cheaper. Isn't it nice, Johnny.

There are men who predict that the session of congress called for August 7th will last a year.

The removal of Monroe Nichols as register of the Duluth land office took place last Saturday, Andrew Jackson Taylor taking possession at that time.

WHERE are the good times that the Democratic organs promised the worangemen of this country in the event of Democratic supremacy last fall.

HUNDREDS of acres of spring wheat in the southern part of the state is being cut to save it for feed, the hot weather having ruined it for anything else.

TWO HUNDRED national banks have closed their doors since January 1st, 1893, remarks the St. Cloud Times. Let us see, wasn't it about that time that a change from a Republican to a Democratic administration took place?

The school board finds itself in a position where it is necessary to ask the state for a loan of $35,000 in order to complete the four new school houses in course of construction. The reason of this is that the eastern parties who bought the bonds issued for that purpose will not take the last twenty-five bonds leaving an amount something like $27,000. The vote upon this matter will probably be unanimous in its favor, as in case they were voted down work on all the school houses would stop at once. The meeting is called for Friday evening, Aug. 4, at 8 o'clock, in the Washington school building.

District is Widespread.

An interview with ex-President Harrison on the present situation of affairs is printed in the New York World as follows:

"The Sherman act is not alone responsible for the prevailing wave of confidence that everybody now experiences. The district is not against silver only; it is not against the government issue of money, people are not holding gold throughout the country. Comparatively good, circulated as freely as silver, people are withdrawing money—gold, silver and paper alike—from the banks, and the savings institutions, and are locking it in safe deposit vaults or hiding it away in their stockings. They do this, not because they have no confidence in the government, but because they are fearful of business calamities. The district is increasing and the outlook is gloomy."

"The Sherman act is not the sole cause of bad times; that measure has served its purpose, it is true, but it is not responsible for the depression which overhangs commerce, trade and agriculture."

DAYS GONE BY.

Oh, the days gone by! Oh, the days gone by! The apple in the orchard, and the pathway through the rye. The chirrup of the robin, and the whistle of the quail. As he piped across the meadows sweet as any musical.

In the days gone by, when my naked feet were tripped By the lonesome tangles, where the water lilies dipped. And a ripple of the river lipped the moss along the brink. Where the placid eyed and lazy footed cattle came to drink.

Oh, the days gone by! Oh, the days gone by! The music of the laughing lily, the luster of the eye. The children's faith in fairies, and Aladdin's magic wand. The simple, soul-rejoicing, glad belief in everything.

When life was like a story, holding neither sob nor sigh. In the olden, golden days gone by, the days gone by.

A Man Sleeping in the Street. A well-dressed man lay on a bench against a lamp-post and apparently sleeping the sleep of the just created a great deal of interest in a busy London street the other day. He sat on a box which he had been carrying.

It was reported Wednesday evening that some 60 men were discharged from the offices of the Northern Pacific in St. Paul on that day. Killed Instantly.

Wm. Grady, a young man 20 years of age and a nephew of Mrs. J. J. Howe, was killed on the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota railroad last Sunday. Grady was employed as a loader and desired to ride out from Monroe to a point on the road on that afternoon, and as a switch engine came along he stood in the middle of the track and attempted to step on the running board, as railroad men do, but missed his footing and fell under the wheels. The remains were brought to Brainerd but no inquest was deemed necessary. The remains were prepared for burial and shipped to Blakeley, Minn.

All checks and drafts received for collection or deposit are taken at the risk of the depositors, and should returns received from collecting agents for such items be dishonored, the amounts will be charged to the account of the depositor—the understanding being that the undersigned assume no responsibility for neglect, default or failure of collecting agents."

A Nice Sum.

Want a Loan.

The board of education held a meeting on Tuesday evening at the Washington school building, a full board being present. The stated object of the meeting was for the purpose of considering the application to the state for a loan of $35,000 for the construction of school houses and purchase of furniture, on account of the refusal of Messrs. Rollins & Sons to take the bonds which they were purchased some time ago. It was therefore resolved to call a meeting of the voters of the school district for the purpose of voting on the question on Friday evening, Aug. 4, 1893. In the meantime the school board will cause circulars to be printed fully explaining the situation so that the public may be intelligently informed before they are asked to act.

Signs Used by Tramps.

It is said that tramps have regular signs that indicate to the members of the fraternity the character of the people in the house. These are generally rude pictures, each having its own significance. A rough representation of a feather indicates that the occupant of the house is a soft hearted man, unable to refuse solicitation; a sketch of a saw horse means, "they will make you work here." A picture of a dog with his tail curled over his back, means, "good dog here, don't be afraid;" while if the tail is turned down, it means, "look out, bad dog."

A Base Slander.

A. Cosper was in town today and stated that the saw mills in Brainerd had shut down and the Northern Pacific had discharged 250 hands, and as a result of all this Brainerd was the dullest town in the state. It is said the mill people made an offer to pay the men half cash now and the balance in the fall, but they concluded that no money at all was better than half cash, so they shut down.—Little Falls Transcript.

It is peculiar to what extent some people can, and do, stretch the truth. The facts in the case are that 150 men have been laid off at the shops in this city, the reduction having been made in every place along the line where the road has men at work. The saw mills in the city are running with full crews. On Wednesday the Northern mill did not run because some forty men refused to go to work under a proposition made them the day before by the company, to the effect that they would pay their employees half cash and the balance in time-checks due on or before six months. On Thursday morning however, the men went to work and the mills will continue cutting until the first of December.

You people at Little Falls don't worry about Brainerd being "the dullest town in the state," for you have trouble enough of your own. There is more business and more work going on here today than in many towns three times its size in the northwest.

DEERWOOD NEWS.

Quite a lot of berries are shipped from Deerwood now.

R. H. Morford has rented his raspberry garden to H. Patterson.

Mr. Joe Nelson, of North Branch, Minn., made a short visit to Deerwood for two days.

P. G. Abrahamson is building a house on his land which is half a mile east of the station.

The Scandinavian Sunday school is going to have a picnic at Portage lake next Tuesday.

The farmers are all busy making hay, but they all "kick like steers" on account of the hot weather.

Joe Schell is building a house for Mr. Raymond, whom we think intends to give farming a trial.

We were favored with a tropical heat the first part of the week, but now it is a good deal cooler.

There are very few fishermen in Deerwood this year. More than likely they have all gone to see the big fair.

The newly organized Sunday school seems to be quite a success. We understand the Sunday school will have a picnic pretty soon.

Some one claims that next Saturday night the young folks are going to have a "regular grand jubilee." We presume that by the "jubilee" is meant a dance.

Rev. Mr. Babcock, of Brainerd, was here last Sunday and delivered a sermon in the school house. Next Sunday Rev. A. H. Carver will speak to which sermon all are invited.

The Deerwood farmers are getting more progressive. Mr. Craig, the store keeper has already sold four Deering hay mowers. Now talk about the Deerwood farmers not being enterprising.

A party of four men "on wheels" came up here from Brainerd last Sunday. They must indeed have had a pleasant trip on their bicycles, because they all looked very much fatigued, and no wonder, for they had traveled the new road between Brainerd and here.

The following story can't be guaranteed to have happened in Deerwood, still it is very typical of Deerwood life. A man from town walks along the road in the country, when he meets a little boy, and thinking he would like to say something to the boy, he says: "Wa! sonny, how are the pumpkins?" Country lad: "Pumpkins," (makes a low whistle) "way over the fence."

Some of the older people are thinking of letting Deerwood undergo a certain social reform. We expect at any time to find notices posted to the following effect: "Notice is hereby given that everyone must lock their doors at 9:30 p. m. sharp. All young gentlemen who are running loose at this dismal hour of the night are not supposed to be right minded, and can be taken up by the town board and charged with insanity, and can either be sent to the asylum at St. Peter for sixty days, or else made to work poll tax on the Eagle Lake & Deerwood road for two weeks. This rule does not apply to young men only, but to those also that are "knee high to a grasshopper." What next?

The wedding of Mr. G. E. Elliott, of Duluth, to Miss Mary J. Towers, formerly a teacher in the Brainerd schools, occurred on Saturday last at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Towers, Rev. Geo. H. Davis officiating.

The DISPATCH mentioned the death of Mrs. Dr. Smith, formerly of this city, in its issue two weeks ago, having received the news from what was considered good authority, but is now assured that the item was a mistake by a lady who has interviewed Mrs. Smith since the item was published. People sometimes live to read their own obituaries, and this is one of the instances.

A painful and serious accident occurred at the Northern mill on Friday afternoon last in which Swan Torgelson received a bad fracture of his left leg. A break occurred in the gearing of the steam feed and one of the pieces of the broken machinery struck him. He is being cared for at the Lumbermen's hospital and is doing as well as could be expected from the serious nature of the injury.

It was reported Wednesday evening that some 60 men were discharged from the offices of the Northern Pacific in St. Paul on that day. It is said that the action is the result of the new policy of rigid economy which the road has decided to adopt, and that the wages of the men remaining in the service of the company have been cut about 10 per cent.—Minneapolis Journal.

At Ashland the sawmill owners of Chequamegon bay, representing all the mills of Ashland, Washburn and Bayfield, met at Ashland Wednesday morning and adopted resolutions to reduce the wages of their employees 10 per cent, with the exception of employees who receive a $1.50 per day or less. Reduction to take effect Aug. 1. This action was precipitated by the lumber shovers strike Tuesday. Two shovers were badly used by the strikers when they refused to quit work at their command. Mill men are determined, says a telegram, to make the men come to reasonable terms, and every mill in Chequamegon district will shut down work if necessary.

Killed Instantly.

Wm. Grady, a young man 20 years of age and a nephew of Mrs. J. J. Howe, was killed on the Brainerd and Northern Minnesota railroad last Sunday. Grady was employed as a loader and desired to ride out from Monroe to a point on the road on that afternoon, and as a switch engine came along he stood in the middle of the track and attempted to step on the running board, as railroad men do, but missed his footing and fell under the wheels. The remains were brought to Brainerd but no inquest was deemed necessary. The remains were prepared for burial and shipped to Blakeley, Minn.

The following is a synopsis of announcements our business men are receiving from the St. Paul dealers and wholesalers:

"The St. Paul banks having been notified by their correspondents throughout the United States that out-of-town items will hereafter be received and handled for collection only at the entire risk of the bank, whence they are received, notice is hereby given that from and after July 15, 1893, the St. Paul banks will receive no deposit for the credit of their customers, checks and drafts payable in St. Paul or Minneapolis only. Items on all points will be entered for collection, and credit given for the same only upon final payment (excepting that drafts on New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis and other central cities in the Eastern states may be taken on deposit in the discretion of the representative banks). All checks and drafts received for collection or deposit are taken at the risk of the depositors, and should returns received from collecting agents for such items be dishonored, the amounts will be charged to the account of the depositor—the understanding being that the undersigned assume no responsibility for neglect, default or failure of collecting agents."

A Nice Sum.

Leon E. Lum has received $10,000 as trustee for the minor children of the late E. N. Donaldson, and we are informed by Mr. Lum that the entire amount will be loaned in Brainerd. This money comes from Marie Stuart, deceased, of New York city, a cousin of Mr. Donaldson's, her estate before it was divided being valued at ten or twelve millions of dollars.

Want a Loan.

The board of education held a meeting on Tuesday evening at the Washington school building, a full board being present. The stated object of the meeting was for the purpose of considering the application to the state for a loan of $35,000 for the construction of school houses and purchase of furniture, on account of the refusal of Messrs. Rollins & Sons to take the bonds which they purchased some time ago. It was there resolved to call a meeting of the voters of the school district for the purpose of voting on the question on Friday evening, Aug. 4, 1893. In the meantime the school board will cause circulars to be printed fully explaining the situation so that the public may be intelligently informed before they are asked to act.

Signs Used by Tramps.

It is said that tramps have regular signs that indicate to the members of the fraternity the character of the people in the house. These are generally rude pictures, each having its own significance. A rough representation of a feather indicates that the occupant of the house is a soft hearted man, unable to refuse solicitation; a sketch of a saw horse means, "they will make you work here." A picture of a dog with his tail curled over his back, means, "good dog here, don't be afraid;" while if the tail is turned down, it means, "look out! bad dog."

There are many differences of opinion in regard to what constitutes true enjoyment, but all agree that after long pursuit of it we may return to find it "under our noses," as the common saying is. Thus it was with Mrs. Sophia Strout, who has long contemplated spending a winter at her daughter in the city. She had confided this intention to her friends, and assured them she would be ready to "up and start" as soon as the first frost came.

So much had been said, and so many plans made that each neighbor partook of the pleasing anticipation and looked forward eagerly to the day of departure.

Once during the winter "Aunt Sphi" came back to Brooksville to attend to some business arrangements, and passed the night with her neighbor, Mrs. Gifford, but it was late June before the little cottage was open again.

Then her neighbors, taking their knitting, came by twos and threes to "see a spell," and hear about the "carrion's on up to the city."

Then Mrs. Strout was strangely reticent. "Didn't you see no oper nor theater?" asked one.

"Yes, I went a couple of times to all the entertainments."

"Well, didn't you see no churches nor none them picture shows?" asked another.

"Yes, she had seen them all, but no enthusiastic description followed. "Well," gasped a third, knitting vigorously, "pears to me the city didn't make no lasting impression on you. Guess you didn't hear much of a thing."

"Good air and seas!" exclaimed Aunt Sphi. "I never had such a happy winter in my life. Seems ter me as long as I live I shall never forget the nice visit I had down here to Brooksville with Missis Green."

The Mystery of Solids.

A Connecticut man took poison and proceeded to make written notes of his sensations. He was saved from death in the nick of time. His method of manner of death is a death for death and his devotion to science prove that he is a man of ability, who had no right to sacrifice a life with which he might do good. It is possible to imagine conditions under which a logical mind could discover some justification for suicide. But it is not the people whose disease has reduced to the verge of abject helplessness, mental and physical, that as a rule take their own lives. The vigorous, healthy people, whose ambitions are lofty and whose energies are great, seem most susceptible to the temptation of self destruction. The intensity of an energetic nature makes the step from disappointment to despair more easily taken. Theorists are interesting when they argue that people who are ready to leave the world should be allowed to do so, but as a matter of fact the laws which interfere with attempts in this direction as a rule reach people whose spirits recapture almost as rapidly as they drop, and who live to wonder how they could ever have contemplated such a step.—Washington Star.

Disappointed His Hearers.

"Gentlemen," cried the first street fakir of the season as he hurriedly scanned the horizon for the police, and got on a box by the gutter, "gentlemen, I have here a dead snake cure for all snake bites, insect bites, tarantula bites, scorpion stings!" The crowd collected thick and fast about the box.

"Yes, sir," said the fakir, "this bottle," and he waved a flask containing red liquid for the air, "this bottle contains a dead snake cure for all snake bites, insect bites, tarantula bites, scorpion stings!"

Several men on the outskirts of the crowd began to feel in their pockets. "And I am selling it at actually less than cost!"

A half dozen tried to struggle through the surging throng, with their money in their hands. "It is composed of distilled water and bromide of potassium, and is guaranteed!"

—But was talking to a street full of spinnets taking disgust.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Dutch Noses.

A study of Jan Steen's pictures of Dutch home life some 200 years ago proves to conviction that even the noses of his country folk were quite as fantastic as they are now. Without their pendulous, heavy, mirth inspiring organs of smell, the artist's tippy fiddlers and peasants, quack doctors and housewives would not make a convincing half as much as they do. It is well that the average Dutchman is a good natured fellow. No matter whether his amiability be due to his phlegmatic temperament or to the reasoned discipline in his soul, the result is the same to the rest of the world. If he were actually disposed to be a prey to his passion, there would be something horribly discordant in the broad comedy of his face.—Chambers Journal.

Two Frothers About Women.

"He who loses his wife and five sons is poorer by so much money," makes the wife of little account. "There are no good women or good faults," also puts a woman in a bad light.

The pious that the Salem witches used to stick into their victims and the seal with which their death warrants were stamped are preserved in one of the public offices of the old city.

Kansas has an attractive unmarried young woman preacher of the Universalist faith. She is a regularly ordained minister and an eloquent apostle of the larger hope.

The philosopher Cleombrotus, after reading Plato's "Phaedon," killed himself in order that he might at once enjoy the sweets of the future life so vividly described.

Forty-seven buffalo are owned by C. Allard, a rancher in the Flathead country, on Crow creek, Montana. These animals are herded with the domestic cattle.

"He who takes an eel by the tail or a woman at her word can say that he has nothing," says a French proverb.

Gambling For Bibles.

Some years ago at St. Ives an old gentleman by his will directed that the produce of a certain orchard should be sold and that the proceeds should be expended in Bibles for the poor children. To decide who were to have these Bibles, it was further enacted that the children should throw dice for them on the communion table in the parish church. The custom is still maintained, although now these illegal practices are conducted at a small table in front of the altar.—Exchange.

Happiness at Home.
There are many differences of opinion in regard to what constitutes enjoyment, but all agree that after long pursuit of it we may return to find it "under our noses," as the common saying is. Thus it was with Mrs. Sophia Strout, who had long contemplated spending a winter with her daughter in the city. She had confided this intention to her friends, and assured them she would be ready to "up and start" as soon as the first of March.
So much had been said, and so many plans made that each neighbor took of the pleasing anticipation and looked forward eagerly to the day of departure.
Once during the winter "Aunt Sphie" came back to Brooksville to attend to some business arrangements, and passed the night with her old neighbor, Mrs. Green. It was late June before the little cottage was open again.
Then her neighbors, taking their knitting, came by twos and threes to "set a spell," and hear about the "curryns" on up to the city.
But Mrs. Strout was strangely reticent.
"Didn't you see no operu nor theater?" asked one.
"Yes, I went a couple of times to all them entertainments."
"Well, didn't you see no church nor none of them picture shows?" asked another.
Yes, she had seen them all, but no enthusiastic description followed.
"Well," gasped a third, knitting vigorously, "pears to me the city don't make no lasting impression on you. Guess you didn't hev much of a time."
"Good airth and seas!" exclaimed Aunt Sphie. "I never had such a happy winter in my life. Seems ter me as long as I live I shall never forget the nice visit I had down here to Brooksville with Missis Green."—Yonah's Companion.

The Mystery of the Scales.
A Connecticut man took pains and proceeded to make written notes of his persecutions. He was saved from death in the nick of time. His methodical manner of preparing for death and his devotion to science prove that he is a man of ability, who had no right to scorn a life which he might do good. It is possible to imagine conditions under which a logical mind could discover some justification for suicide. But it is not the people whose disease has reduced to the verge of physical helplessness, mental and physical, that as a rule take their own lives. The vigorous, healthy people, whose ambitions are lofty and whose energies are great, seem most susceptible to the temptation of self destruction.
The intensity of an energetic nature makes the step from disappointment to despair more easily taken. Theorists are interesting when they argue that people who are ready to leave the world should be allowed to do so, but as a matter of fact the laws which interfere with attempts in this direction as a rule reach people whose spirits recuperate almost as rapidly as they droop, and who live to wonder how they could ever have contemplated such a step.—Washington Star.

Disappointed His Hearers.
"Gentlemen," cried the first street fakir of the season as he hurriedly scanned the horizon for the police, and got on a box by the gutter, "Gentlemen, I have here a dead sure cure for all snake bites, insect bites, tarantula bites, scorpion stings!"
The crowd collected thick and fast about the box.
"Yes, sir," said the fakir, "this bottle, and he waved a flask containing red liquid in the air over the heads of the enthusiastic throng, "this bottle contains a dead sure cure for snake bites!"
Several men on the outskirts of the crowd began to feel in their pockets. "And I am selling it at actually less than cost!"
A half dozen tried to struggle through the surging throng, with their money in their hands.
"It is composed of distilled water and bromide of potassium, and is guaranteed!"
But he was talking to a street full of spaced time with stale disgust.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Dutch Notes.
A study of Jan Steen's pictures of Dutch home life some 200 years ago proves to conviction that in his day the noses of his country folk were quite as fantastic as they are now. Without their pendulous, heavy, mirth inspiring organs of snell, the artist's tipplers and peasants, quack doctors and housewives would not make one smile half as much as they do. It is well that the average Dutchman is a good natured fellow. No matter whether his amiability be due to his phlegmatic temperament or to the reasoned discipline in his soul, the result is the same to the outer world. If he were naturally disposed to be a prey to his passions, there would be something horribly discordant in the broad comedy of his face.—Chambers' Journal.

Two Provers About Women.
"He who loses his wife and five sons is poorer by so much money!" makes the wife of little account. "There are no good women or good fairs," also puts a woman in a bad light.
The pins that the Salem witches used to stick into their victims and the seal with which their death warrants were stamped are preserved in one of the public offices of the old city.
Kansas has an attractive unmarried young woman preacher of the Universalist faith. She is a regular ordained minister and an eloquent apostle of the larger hope.

The Philosopher Cleombrotas.
reading Plato's "Phaedon," killed himself in order that he might at once enjoy the sweets of the future life so vividly described.

Forty-seven buffalo are owned by C. Allard, a rancher in the Flathead country, on Crow Creek, Montana. These animals are herded with the domestic cattle.

"He who takes an eel by the tail or a woman at her word can say that he has nothing," says a French proverb.

Gambling For Bibles.
Some years ago at St. Ives an old gentleman by his will directed, that the produce of a certain orchard should be sold and that the proceeds should be expended in Bibles for the poor children. To decide who were to have these Bibles, it was further enacted that the children should throw dice for them on the communion table in the parish church. The custom is still retained, although now these illegal practices are conducted at a small table in front of the altar.—Exchange.

STEP LIVELY

What Is Gained by Speeding Passengers to New York?

The Pennsylvania railroad has notices placed in prominent positions at the stations within a radius of 25 miles of New York, requiring passengers to board and alight from all trains as expeditiously as possible. The reason for this, it is said, is that it is very hard to obtain the schedules to the exact minute.

Such a notice is a good thing if people can be made to heed it. But it is only a text after all. The road preaches and driving must be done. The Pennsylvania railroad is the first and the main work of the superintendent will be to keep them up to the mark. On the Manhattan Elevated the injunction of the trainmen "step lively" has become a byword. It is the duty of the trainmen to reiterate it thousands of times every irksome, but it is only by this constant spurring at all points that a great passenger movement can be accomplished with punctuality.

General Manager Hain once told his men (in a circular issued for a "rush" day) that the country people who would then visit New York would not be used to "the energetic ways prevalent here," and it is a fact that the thousands of habitual commuters on the crowded lines have learned to move promptly without being driven and (most of them) without overriding their neighbors' rights and convenience.

The same thing is true, but to a less degree on the lines of heavy suburban travel, but the brakeman on the ordinary railroad has a harder task, because his passengers do not know of those who ride only once every day, but even he must remember that a half minute wasted at each one of 10 stations means five minutes lost.

The methods of driving passengers successfully cannot be laid down on one paper very well. They must be deduced from the facts of life. The conductor, the trainman, both, must be constant and persistent until people do not need to be "bossed". When we speak of "driving," of course we mean driving by the inductive method, so as to speak, and one of the best things is a trainman who is not afraid to speak to a passenger and to promptly prepare to discipline him without coercion is to announce the station distinctly twice and allow a minute or more before the train stops.

We judge that there are still some 25,000,000 passengers who do not know how to keep their men up to a proper standard in this simple matter of distinct enunciation. Surely they must have learned by this time that the widespread annoyance is not abolished simply by being shown up in the funny columns of the newspapers.

But, after all, the most effectual element in getting suburban trains over the road promptly on a hard time table is a good conductor. He needs no posted notices to passengers nor any professor of elocution for his brakemen. His quick eye and brisk movements and pervading energy soon impel every one who often uses his train to "step lively." —Railroad Gazette.

A Little Too Much.

The celebration of the carnival, as the last days before the coming of Lent are called in European countries, reached its highest and gayest point in Paris during the old masquerade. Everybody went into the streets, to be pelted with confecti^ons and to have a mad time generally.

A royal prince, the Duke of Orleans, wishing to take part in the merriment, put on fanciful garments and went out with his friend Dubois.

"Now," said the prince to Dubois, "in order that my identity may not be suspected, you must not treat me as if I were a prince, but, on the contrary, with familiarity.

"Very well, monseigneur," said Du-bois.

They went out. The fun grew fast and furious, and DuBois, in the midst of his other familiarities, ventured actually to kick his royal highness.

"Hold on!" said the prince, with a groan. "Stop that. You're disguising me too much!"—Youth's Companion.

Settling a Dispute.
Uncle John Berry was an eccentric man with a large amount of common sense. Two of his townsmen, who had been lifelong friends, had a falling out. Abram Green was going to sue Benjamin Brown, while Brown threatened to bring a countersuit against Green, and the prospect was good for a long string of lawsuits. At this point friends interfered and persuaded the two men to leave the

The old man consented to act as judge on two conditions. Neither of the disputants should employ a lawyer, and they should promise to abide by his decision.

To this they agreed, and Uncle John drew up a bond which they signed, agreeing to pay him $200 if they did not abide by his judgment. After the papers were duly executed Uncle John took the contestants into a room from which every one else was excluded, and seating himself at the end of a table told Green to sit at his right facing Brown, who sat on the opposite side.

Then he had Brown tell his story. If Green tried to interrupt him, he was made to keep still. When Mr. Brown was done, Mr. Green told his story, while Brown in turn was obliged to remain silent.

Uncle John was silent for a minute. Then he held out a hand to each and said:

"My decision is that each of you pay me 50 cents and go home—50 cents apiece, go home and say nothing more about this business."

They both began to expostulate. That was no way to settle the matter, they declared. They wanted to

But Uncle John was firm. "My decision is," he repeated, "that each of you pay me 50 cents, go home and say nothing more about it, or else pay me $200. I have your Arable Land in Great Britain. Arable land in Great Britain has steadily diminished in amount during the last 20 years to the extent of more than 2,000,000 acres, but this diminution does not apply to Scotland, where there has been an actual increase of 78,000 acres. On the other hand, the area under grass has increased in greater proportion than the arable land has diminished, owing to reclamations and extensions.

The ancient Romans, borrowing as they did all the worthily imitable customs from the Greek and Egyptian peoples, found the most effective results to their luxurious tastes and carried them to a degree of excellence which had never been attained, making them not only of immense benefit in a sanitary sense, but also of great value as favorite resorts for people of culture and talent as well as for the poorer classes, who also enjoyed the privilege of their own compartments. Look at the baths of Diocletian, which are estimated to have been 1,000 feet long and 100 feet wide, and capable of holding 600 people at one time. And those of Caracalla at Rome. What wonderful ruins of a still more wonderful structure! In these walls bathing became a science. Cold baths, tepid baths, hot baths, and the use of steam and of saunas of bath! Why simply to visit the place was a rest and recreation. Statuary and paintings lent beauty on all sides. Music charmed. Orators and poets entertained. The beauty that remained wallowed in the memory of the beholder as bright and beautiful as if they were dead but yesterday, and the marble carvings and pavements which escaped the fury of the burning mountain have

One reads little of sea bathing in those days. Every Roman colony thought to construct its baths as if thought of raising its temples. Now all Italy turns to the sea, and the natural bathing places, with one accord cries as early as May, "Let us to the sea!" Not all the establishments are as convenient and as well constructed as the Lido at Venice and those of Capri at Naples. But there are many of the general plan. Every place open to the use of the public is provided with a pavilion where people congregate to discuss the latest topics, or to devour with eager ears the latest gossip. The morning papers are read till the morning till night, if only one of those hard-boiled "organettes" or portable pianos, which grind incessantly and seem all day to be playing "Santa Lucia" or "Bella Napoli" and very sometimes with

Once in the water and presto! changed! all the reserved etiquette of the Italian drawing room vanishes. Then and then only does liberty exist, and the prettiest of the signorinas, as well as the handsome young gentlemen, are seen in their bathing costume, generally dark blue with a little white braid, transformed into veritable water nymphs, swim off with all the grace and alacrity of a fish, never fearing, never thinking, just as if they were in their own element. Then and to romance. Fancy a boat full of handsome young officers towing a trail of pretty, bright eyed girls to some quiet, picturesque spot, where all indulge in a little luncheon. It doesn't seem so strange at these times, when, even at that season these young officers may never have dared address the young ladies on land, or if they have had the good fortune to do so it was only under the watchful eye of the omnipresent chapter

Two Strange Meetings.
At table d'hôte in a New York hotel two strangers met about a year since, in an interesting conversation ended by hearty pledges of mutual friendship. Precisely six months later to the day and almost to the hour they again met, without the slightest prevision or prearrangement, at the same hotel and the same table. During the interval each had traveled around the world, one eastward, the other westward.—Exchange.

Why Many Children and Some Grown Persons Dislike Them.

There are many authenticated instances of children becoming attached to snakes and making pets of them. The solution of a question of this kind is sometimes to be found in the child mind. My experience is that when young chilto see that creature its strange appearance and manner of progression, so unlike those of other animals known to men, affect them with amazement and a sense of mystery and that they fear it just as they would fear any other strange being. Monkeys are doubtless affected in much the same way, although in a state of nature, where they inhabit forests abounding with the larger constrictors and venomous snakes, it is highly probable that they also possess a traditional fear of the serpent form. It would be strange if they did not.

The experiment of presenting a caged snake, with a serpent head, suddenly to a newspaper and watching his behavior when he gravely opens the parcel, expecting to find nothing more than a piece of stale sponge cake or succulent banana—was the experiment has been recorded in itself a hundred important scientific facts, and out of respect to one's masters, and out of curiosity, and while reading it. A third view might be taken which would account for our interest toward the serpent without reference to his utility to man, and all epidemics might simply result from vague knowledge of the fact that some snakes are venomous; that, in some rare cases, a snake bite is fatal; that, in some cases, and that, not being sufficiently intelligent to distinguish the noxious from the innocuous—at all events while under the influence of the serpent's motion—we destroy them all alike, adopting Herod's rough and ready method of ridding his city of one inconvenient citizen by general slaughter of innocents.

It might be objected that in Europe, great animosity to the serpent is gratified, death from snake bite is hardly to be feared, and the viper is despised. But the viper, showing how small is the amount of venom possessed by this species, now rarely if not the power to destroy human life, have been before the pest for a century. And although it is not so common in Europe as in the net in the hand of every peasant, the net remains that death from snake bite is a rare thing in Europe, probably not more than one losing his life from this cause for every 250 who perish by hydrophobia. And the viper is not so terrible. Yet while the sight of a snake excites in a majority of persons the most violent emotions, dogs are universal favorites, and we have them always with us and make pets of them in spite of the fact that they are capable of becoming rabid and inflict that unspeakable and dreadful suffering and destruction

This leads to the following question: is not at least a part of the excessive fear of the serpent, so unworthy as rational beings, and the cause of much unnecessary cruelty, is partly due to the fact that the serpent is the symbol of evil and the cause of sudden death? For these exist, we know, an exceedingly widespread idea that the bite of a venomous serpent must kill and kill quickly. Common sense and the knowledge of the bushmaster, fer de lance, hamadryad, and the piliaga, the viper of Europe and the poor viper of many experiments have not been able to remove this idea. It may be regarded as almost harmless—at least it is not more harmful than the serpent. Nevertheless, in this cold, northern world, even in other worlds where the serpent is not so common, the delusion prevails and may be taken into account here, although its origin cannot be well discussed. For my part, I believe that the fear of the serpent regard serpents with destructive trust purely and simply because we are taught from childhood.—Macmillan's Hawthorne as a Visitor.

On one occasion after my return from African and European cruise I was berthed to the Portsmouth station, where we were hardly settled at housekeeping when Hawthorne came to see us. The hall was encumbered with boxes, the sight of which made him feel his visit to be inopportune, and he said quickly:

"I have just come for an hour or two see you and must return this even"ing."
Mrs. Bridge, seeing that he was only aid of incommoding us, at once an-ered:
"Must you desert us when I need your

"Will you really let me help you?" he her joking answer, assuring him of pleasure in gaining a helper so strong, rich in muscle and intelligence, put him entirely at ease, and for a week he made himself useful on all possible occasions. Commodore Bridge's "Recollections."

the connection of simple jaundice with sudden mental emotion is generally admitted. Such facts as the following are not uncommon: A young woman becomes yellow at the discovery of her deeds; another on hearing that her niece was killed; a young man on being charged from office because he had grown tall enough.

simple jaundice is often followed by yellow atrophy, which is also known to be directly caused by shock. In this form of jaundice there is always a disorganization of the liver cells. Even cancer may have a like origin.—Exchange.

A painful and serious accident occurred at the Northern mill on Friday afternoon last in which Swan Torgelson received a bad fracture of his left leg. A break occurred in the gearing of the steam feed and one of the pieces of the broken machinery struck him. It was reported Wednesday evening that some 60 men were discharged from the offices of the Northern Pacific in St. Paul on that day. At Ashland the sawmill owners of Chequamegon bay, representing all the mills of Ashland, Washburn and Bayfield, met at Ashland Wednesday morning and adopted resolutions to reduce the wages of their employees 10 per cent. with the exception of employees who receive a $1.50 per day or less. Reduction to take effect Aug. 1. This action was precipitated by the lumber shovers strike Tuesday. Two shovers were badly used by the strikers when they refused to quit work at their command. Mill men are determined, says a telegram, to make the men come to reasonable terms, and every mill in Chequamegon district will shut down work if necessary.

Killed Instantly.

Wm. Grady, a young man 20 years of age and a nephew of Mrs. J. J. Howe, was killed on the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota railroad last Sunday. Grady was employed as a loader and desired to ride out from Monroe to a point on the road on that afternoon, and as a switch engine came along he stood in the middle of the track and attempted to step on the running board, as railroad men do, but missed his footing and fell under the wheels. The remains were brought to Brainerd but no inquest was deemed necessary. The remains were prepared for burial and shipped to Blakeley, Minn.

When you want a large picture have it made a McColl's gallery, over the postoffice.

Items on all points will be entered for collection, and credit given for the same only upon final payment (excepting the drafts on New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis and other central cities in the Eastern states may be taken on the representative banks). All checks and drafts received for collection and credit are taken at the risk of the depositors, and should returns received from collecting agents for such items be dishonored, the amounts will be charged to the account of the depositor - the understanding being that the undersigned assume no responsibility for neglect, default or failure of collecting agents."

A Nice Sum.

Leon E. Lum has received $10,000 as trustee for the minor children of the late E. N. Donaldson, and we are informed by Mr. Lum that the entire amount will be loaned in Brainerd. This money comes from Mario Stuart, deceased, of New York city, a cousin of Mr. Donaldson's, her estate before it was divided being valued at ten or twelve millions of dollars.

Want a Loan.

The board of education held a meeting on Tuesday evening at the Washington school building, a full board being present. The stated object of the meeting was for the purpose of considering the application to the state for a loan of $35,000 for the construction of school houses and purchase of furniture, on account of the refusal of Messrs. Rollins & Sons to take the bonds which they purchased some time ago. It was therefore resolved to call a meeting of the voters of the school district for the purpose of voting on the question on Friday evening, Aug. 4, 1893. In the meantime the school board will cause circulars to be printed fully explaining the situation so that the public may be intelligently informed before they are asked to act.

Signs Used by Tramps.

It is said that tramps have regular signs that indicate to the members of the fraternity the character of the people in the house. These are generally rude pictures, each having its own significance. A rough representation of a feather indicates that the occupant of the house is a soft hearted man, unable to refuse solicitation; a sketch of a saw horse means, "they will make you work here." A picture of a dog with his tail curled over his back, means, "good dog here, don't be afraid," while if the tail is turned down, it means, "look out, bad dog."

You can Economize

By using Royal Baking Powder to the exclusion of all other leavening agents. The official analysts report it to be 27% greater in leavening strength than the other powders. It has three times the leavening strength of many of the cheap alum powders.

It never fails to make good bread, biscuit and cake, so that there is no flour, eggs or butter spoiled and wasted in heavy, sour and uneatable food.

Do dealers attempt, because times are dull, to work off old stock, or low grade brands of baking powder? Decline to buy them. During these times all desire to be economical, and Royal is the most Economical Baking Powder.

A Base Stander.

A. Cosper was in town today and stated that the saw mills in Brainerd had shut down and the Northern Pacific had discharged 250 hands, and as a result of all this Brainerd was the dullest town in the state. It is said the mill people made an offer to pay the men half cash now and the balance in the fall, but they concluded that no money at all was better than half cash, so they shut down. - Little Falls Transcript.

It is peculiar to what extent some people can, and do, stretch the truth. The facts in the case are that 150 men have been laid off at the shops in this city, the reduction having been made in every place along the line where the road has men at work. The saw mills in the city are running with full crews. On Wednesday the Northern mill did not run because some forty men refused to go to work under a proposition made them the day before by the company, to the effect that they would pay their employees half cash and the balance in time-checks due on or before six months. On Thursday morning however, the men went to work and the mills will continue cutting until the first of December.

You people at Little Falls don't worry about Brainerd being "the dullest town in the state," for you have trouble enough of your own. There is more business and more work going on here today than in many towns three times its size in the northwest.

DEERWOOD NEWS.

Quite a lot of berries are shipped from Deerwood now.

R. H. Morford has rented his raspberry garden to H. Patterson.

Mr. Joe Nelson, of North Branch, Minn., made a short visit to Deerwood for two days.

P. G. Abrahamson is building a house on his land which is half a mile east of the station.

The Scandinavian Sunday school is going to have a picnic at Portage lake next Tuesday.

The farmers are all busy making hay, but they all "kick like steers" on account of the hot weather.

Joe Schell is building a house for Mr. Raymond, whom we think intends to give farming a trial.

We were favored with a tropical heat the first part of the week, but now it is a good deal cooler.

There are very few fishermen in Deerwood this year. More than likely they have all gone to see the big fair.

The newly organized Sunday school seems to be quite a success. We understand the Sunday school will have a picnic pretty soon.

Some one claims that next Saturday night the young folks are going to have a "regular grand jubilee."

We presume that by the "jubilee" is meant a dance.

Rev. Mr. Babcock, of Brainerd, was here last Sunday and delivered a sermon in the school house. Next Sunday Rev. A. H. Carver will speak to which sermon all are invited.

The Deerwood farmers are getting more progressive. Mr. Craig, the store keeper has already sold four Deering hay mowers. Now talk about the Deerwood farmers not being enterprising.

A party of four men "on wheels" came up here from Brainerd last Sunday. They must indeed have had a pleasant trip on their bicycles, because they all looked very much fatigued, and no wonder, for they had traveled the new road between Brainerd and here.

The following story can't be guaranteed to have happened in Deerwood, still it is very typical of Deerwood life. A man from town walks along the road in the country, when he meets a little boy, and thinking he would like to say something to the boy, he says: "Wal sonny, how are the pumpkins." Country lad: "Pumpkins," (makes a low whistle) "way over the fence."

Some of the older people are thinking of letting Deerwood undergo a certain social reform. We expect at any time to find notices posted to the following effect: "Notice is hereby given that everyone must lock their doors at 9:30 p. m. sharp. All young gentlemen who are running loose at this dismal hour of the night are not supposed to be right minded, and can be taken up by the town board and charged with insanity, and can either be sent to the asylum at St. Peter for sixty days, or else be made to work poll tax on the Eagle Lake & Deerwood road for two weeks. This rule does not apply to young men only, but to those also that are 'knee high to a grasshopper.'" What next? PHILIP SMALL.
